Some of our members paint, photograph, draw, sculpt, weave, carve, mold, fire, collage, perform, video, shape, exhibit, sell.

Other members appreciate, support, get inspired, help out, connect, volunteer, write, greet, work as art ambassadors.

Our members encourage each other's creative interests and endeavors with energy, opportunity, advice, and even critiques - but always with kindness.

Our members, like you, are the backbone of our family.

COFFEE WITH BILL

FREE ON ZOOM, FRIDAY, APRIL 9 AT 10 A.M.

Grab a cup of coffee and sit down with Bill Wolff, our 2021 Orem & Robinson Fellow for Contemporary Art and Community Engagement. Wolff will speak about his work, what inspires him, his art processes, his plans for his fellowship year, and the new sculpture studio he set up at Salisbury University. There is no charge to attend, and the public is invited. For the Zoom link, go to www.ArtLeagueofOceanCity.org/upcoming-events/

The fellowship is designed to bring artistic expertise to the Art League and allow our members and patrons a chance to learn and explore new mediums. The fellow has opportunities to exhibit their work, build new audiences, and engage with the community. "We are excited to continue this fellowship for a third year, thanks to Laura Jenkins, who has endowed this position in memory of her parents," Rina Thaler, executive director, said.

Wolff, who lives in Salisbury, is associate chair of the Art Department and head of the sculpture program at Salisbury University. He works primarily in wood, metal, and installation. Bill lived in Japan as a Monbukagakusho scholar and received a MA in wood sculpture. He also taught 3D design at the Rochester Institute of Technology, as well as teaching as an adjunct lecturer at the University of Rochester.

She shares her story with others through her debut book, "A Piece of Me, Brings Peace to Me."

There is no charge to attend, and the public is invited. For the Zoom link, go to www.ArtLeagueofOceanCity.org/upcoming-events/

The Art League initiated this fellowship to construct and facilitate activities and events that will stimulate conversation surrounding diversity. THE ART OF FRIENDSHIP THE FRIENDSHIP OF ART

Above all else, friendship is sharing. And sharing is what art is all about, isn't it? Sometimes that sharing is comforting or inspiring. At other times, like a trusted friend, it can be brutally honest, forcing us to look within ourselves. Whatever the case, it's a sharing that draws us together. Even on a virtual platform, experiencing a work of art with a friend is like holding hands.

The Art League of Ocean City is a gathering of friends with a shared mission and vision. We are, moreover, a Community of Creatives. This includes not only those who construct and perform the broad range of fine arts, but those who support the arts as well, who create space and time for works to be shared and enjoyed. For what good is a drawing stuck under the bed, a sculpture tucked away in a closet, a poem left unspoken, or a light hidden under a basket?

I have gained so many friends through my association with the Art League: friends who have inspired me, friends who have taught me so much, who have truly enriched the quality of my existence; friends whose comfort and support have helped carry me through this most difficult year. It motivates me to give back, and to draw in more of my greater circle of acquaintances to share in this wonderful experience.

It's fun to associate with people who create things. So let's bring our friends online: literally and figuratively. Ask them to join. Get them involved in a virtual event. Bring them with you to the Center: for a class, for an exhibition, for an event, or just to share a few moments outside and enjoy the magnificent view. It's an act of friendship that will bring you closer, and help enrich lives throughout the community.

"Creativity is contagious," said Albert Einstein, "Pass it on."

Art League Student Showcase

LIGHT AT THE END OF THE TUNNEL

As we "spring ahead" and the days become longer and warmer, there is a palpable sense of hope in the air that we can begin to put the pieces of our lives back together and move to some sort of normalcy.

While we will still be providing lots of online classes in the upcoming months, including lectures and other programming, we will also be moving cautiously and safely ahead with welcoming you back to events like our in-person First Fridays and classes, and outdoor events like Arts Day at Windmill Creek Winery on Sunday, June 13

COVID-19 has hit us all hard, and the Art League is no exception. With the cancellation of our events and fundraisers, as well as a drop in visitors to the Arts Center, our membership numbers have taken a dip. We are looking to our loyal current members for assistance by inviting a friend to join the Art League of Ocean City. This is a unique opportunity to both help the arts and also own a piece of artwork by renowned artist Patrick Henry. (See the cover story for more details)

There are so many benefits of membership in the Art League. We are a diverse nonprofit arts organization that provides valuable services to the community, promotes cultural tourism, and celebrates art in all its forms.

In this newsletter you will see the many programs offered here at the Arts Center and online, but your membership to the Art League also supports the work we do in the community. For instance, we provide free classes to at-risk youth through a collaboration with Worcester County Youth and Family Counseling. We offer monthly free classes to the developmentally delayed adult clients of Worcester County Developmental Center. New this spring, we will be running an after-school art enrichment club with Pocomoke Elementary School. Your membership makes these programs and so many others possible.

So, if you are not already a member of the Art League, please consider joining. If you are already a member, bring us a friend. Not only will you receive a beautiful print by an iconic Eastern Shore artist, you will be supporting the arts at a time when it is needed most. With all of the virtual exhibits, events, and our new online gift shop, no matter where you live, you are now able to participate! Thank you for your support, and I look forward to seeing you in-person or online this spring.
