Focus on fellowships

As a nonprofit community arts organization, our vision is to be a cultural center and regional catalyst, inspiring creativity, providing accessibility to the arts, and promoting an understanding of the value of the arts.

One way we have been able to realize this vision is through our fellowship positions. By inviting people from outside of the organization to serve as a fellow, it brings resources to our community and provides an opportunity for artists to engage with the public and share their knowledge and talents.

This year, we welcome Aric Sneer as our Orem & Harriet Robinson Fellow for Contemporary Art & Community Engagement, and Ian Postley as our Fellow for Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion. Each brings a different perspective to the organization, and, while their activities here differ, both add value.

Aric Sneer is an associate professor of art at Salisbury University where he heads the glass department. Plans for his fellowship include a bus trip to the Chrysler Museum of Art in Norfolk, Va. on June 15. He will present a free lecture about his own work on May 18 at 6 pm at the Arts Center, and give some context to the works that can be seen in the museum. Look for his solo show at the Arts Center in November called "I Can Hear the Ocean."

Ian Postley has been part of the Art League since 2013 when we awarded him an Art League scholarship to help with his education at Delaware College of Art & Design. Since then, he has been involved with the OC Film Festival designing our yearly poster art. Postley will be working with school outreach and helping the Art League bring diversity and make the organization more inclusive, part of our core values.

Read more about the fellowship positions on our website. If you would like information on personally endowing a fellowship, please contact us. Thank you.

John Sisson, President     Rina Thaler, Executive Director

ARIC SNEER

"I hope to share my passion for glass with the Art League of Ocean City, its members, and the community at large."

IAN POSTLEY

"One of the many things I discuss with younger artists is the importance of integrating and interacting with your peers."
